WOMANLY JOBS GUILTY PEE

IN COLLAPSE AT TRIAL FOR FORGERY

Brockton, June 25—First breaking into jobs, Miss Barbara J. O'Connor, 26, of Third Cliff, Scituate, collapsed today at her trial in superior court on indictments charging her with larceny and forgery at the Scituate branch of the Rockland Trust Company.

A top-hour recess was called by Judge Walter L. Quinn, after which the girl returned, and in a surprise move withdrew her guilty plea and pleaded guilty to 17 counts of forgery.

When her plea was read by the court clerk, an indictment charging larceny of approximately $3000 was not mentioned.

SENTENCE MONDAY
After the changed plea, Judge Quinn announced that he will impose sentence on the former Scituate bank teller next Monday.

Four days ago, Miss O'Connor was also indicted by the federal grand jury in Boston in 17 counts involving the alleged embezzlement of $3000 from the Scituate bank.

Rite was employed in the bank branch for 12 years, after which, having previously begun talking to be a teacher.

REFURGE TO FRIENDS
Her street last April, according to her friends and the townfolk at Scituate, where she was said to have led a quiet and orderly life at home with her parents, a sister and a brother, and where she was active in church and club work.

She had left her position in the bank March 15, after an audit of the books revealed a shortage.

Yale Wins Jayvee, Freshman Races From Harvard

New London, Conn., June 25 (AP)—Yale's oarsmen made a clean sweep of the two morning races of the 75th annual regatta with Harvard today, winning the freshman race by a length and the half and the junior varsity by about three-quarters of a length.

The Kite were heading the freshman race, rowed over a two-mile upstream course on the Thames, on a platter when Harvard caught a "crab" in the final half-mile, but captured the Jayvee race, also at two miles, on their own merits.

Yale's junior varsity spotted Harvard a half-length lead in the early stages of the duel, made this up before a quarter-mile had gone by and won handily. Harvard's sprint finish in the last quarter of a mile served only to cut Yale's winning margin from nearly two lengths.

SOVIET ARMS SENT SPAIN, EDEN SAYS

Lisbon, Portugal, June 25 (NS)—With Fascist pilots fighting their way toward the city, Leon Torres, president of Santander, Spain, today staged a radio broadcast, according to a Fascist radio broadcast. The radio bulletin said the ship, led by starboard, sent government buildings and proclaimed a "Communist Liberation Republic."

London, June 25 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden stepped into bitter Commons debate over the Spanish crisis today to declare that Soviet Russia, as well as Germany and Italy, has sent "very large" shipments of arms into Spain.

He clashed with white-mailed David Lloyd George, who guided British decisions in the World War. Meanwhile it was learned Great Britain and France have decided to send their own warships to fill the gap in the "hands of Spain" were pulled created by Italy-German withdrawal.

The Franco-British move to extend the supervisory watch on Spain means they will take over patrolling the eastern, or government, side of Spain, where Germany and Italy left off.

Eden joined Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in urging a "keep out" attitude toward Italy-German withdrawal from the Spanish war.

OUTLOOK 'NOT HOPELESS'
Many of those who now desire intervention in Spain were not disposed to take any active part to help of democracy in Spain. Mr. Chamberlain declared in the midst of the debate.

TWO DOCTORS 'FRED' AT TEWKSBURY

Two staff physicians at the Tewksbury State Infirmary have been discharged in a reorganization of personnel, it was learned by the Boston Evening American today.

From a reliable source, it was reported that three nurses have also been dropped in the course of this long-awaited "shakedown."

Dr. Lawrence K. Kelly, superintendent of the infirmary, confirmed the story of the doctors' dismissals, but declined to name them.

"From a humane and charitable viewpoint," he said, "it is only fair that this should be a private matter between the institutions and the men involved."

One of the doctors was employed on a temporary basis and had been attached to the institution only a few months. The other, a permanent appointee, had been at Tewksbury for more than a year. Salaries were $1800 a year each.

Superintendent Kelly would only say that dismissals were "for the good of the service."

One of the doctors is said to have brought on his discharge by a noisy scene with his wife, also a state employee.

The doctors were ordered by Superintendent Kelly David McCarthy of Medford, newly appointed chairman of the trustees, said.

"I have approved the superintendent's action," McCarthy declared.

Borah Calls Off Steel Radio Talk
New York, June 25 (AP)—The NBC network, which yesterday announced that Senator William E. Borah had been scheduled for a Saturday night broadcast on the steel strike, today reported the talk had been canceled at the Senator's request.

STRIKE CITIES ROCKED BY 4 BLASTS

Columbus, O., June 25 (NS)—Five hundred additional national guard troops were ordered into the Mahoning Valley steel center today by Adm. Gen. Emil F. Meyer.

Two hundred were sent to Warren and 300 to Youngstown. General Meyer said they would help protect non-striking workers planning to return to their jobs with Republic Steel Corporation and Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

Warren, O., June 25 (AP)—Two blasts rocked this steel strike center early today, one of them described by a national guard official as an apparent attempt to blow up a patrol car of troops; the other aimed to demolish a bridge.

The bombings occurred on the heels of Governor Martin L. Davey's order to Ohio's national guard commander to see that steel workers "who want to return to their employment shall enjoy the privilege without being molested."

The first explosion occurred near the gates of the Republic Steel Corporation plant and a suspect, described by military officials as a strike worker, was arrested and held on no-parole.

The second was at the South Main street bridge, not far from the plant, where a bomb was thrown from an automobile directly in the path of a moving patrol car containing national guardsmen.

Two bombings also occurred in the city of Warren, O., when a bomb was thrown at the police station and exploded just ahead of it in the middle of the highway.

Clash and scattered papers were scattered for 100 feet.

Those who quickly snatched their car and fled at the speeding automobile showed signs of being shocked, but no believed it was damaged and men believed it was damaged and men believed it was damaged.

Death Ends Plight of Brave Lynn Boy Hurt in Diving

Charles to the end, knowing he was doomed for certain death, 11-year-old Raymond Casavant of Lynn, who had been hopelessly paralyzed for nearly a year, died today at the Holy Ghost Hospital, Cambridge.

The youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Casavant of Barrett street, Lynn, fractured his spine July 2 diving into shallow water and had been bedridden since. Because of his incurable condition, he was taken from Lynn Hospital to the Holy Ghost Hospital last March. But Raymond then knew he could never get well again.

He told police officers who conveyed him over the road from Lynn. "I guess my goose is cooked," he said. As the time of his arrival at the Cambridge hospital in March, doctors predicted it would be long before he would be able to get out of bed. Raymond didn't have any false hopes of recovery. If he was discharged, he wanted to go to work.

FOUNT NAMED
Florence Fount, former professor of general anthropology and prehistoric data of the Harvard Law School, has been appointed a university professor under the new plan for the establishment of a new school of anthropology.

Professor Hanson will teach in the department of economics and will continue in the work of the new Graduate School of Public Administration.

Hanson was director of research and secretary of the Commission of Inquiry at Washington on national policy in international economic relations in 1932-33.

FIRST HOLDER
Dr. Morris, pathologist in charge of the University of Cleveland, will be the first holder of the professorship of legal medicine established at Harvard last year under the terms of a gift by Mrs. Frances Givens Lee of Littleton, N.H.

During the next academic year Professor Fount will conduct a course in paleoanthropology at the law school and a course in history and system of Anglo-American law in the department of government.

Course in Cooking At State College Opens in Fall

Amherst, June 25—Massachusetts State College students will have an opportunity to learn to cook and learn about the intricacies of cooking next fall.

A new course in foods and food preparation, designed especially for women, will be offered at the college.

The course was proposed upon recommendation of the Massachusetts State College Association, which has authorized training positions for students who want to take the two-year course.

It will be administered by Roland H. Verne, director of the State College School of Agriculture at the college. The training course will be limited to 10 students the first year.

Students will use the college building room as a practical laboratory for part of their instruction and other phases of their studies will include such subjects as vegetable gardening and marketing, horticulture, floriculture, quantity food service, law, and English, and kitchen management.

Suspect Held on Deathbed Story

His name whispered on a deathbed at City Hospital, a Dorchester man was picked up for questioning today by police of First Corner station in connection with the fatal shooting of Charles McNeil, 30, of West Clinton street, South End.

McNeil died yesterday, a dozen hours after being knifed in a brawl with two others near Dartmouth and Tremont streets.

A police motorist found McNeil in a room on the pavement and took him to City Hospital. Later a physician found a bloodstained sweater's heming knife with a nine-inch blade.

12 Pickets Hurt In Jersey Clash

North Bergen, N. J., June 25 (AP)—A dozen strikers were injured, one seriously, in a five-minute battle between pickets and police at the entrance of the Thruway Wagon Works today, when people attempted to prevent an automobile from entering the plant's property.

A strike has been under way at the wagon works for eight weeks.

The Brighter Side

By DAMON RUNYON

Chicago, June 25.—This is by way of nail and farewell to a dear old friend.

For 26 years we were on the New York American, now merged with the Daily Mirror in the Evening Journal. Off and on, in that period, we were attached to other organizations of the Mirror service, but always we continued the American "our" paper. It was our only real Damon Runyon newspaper home.

We have never gotten over the habit of preceding ourself as "of the American." We can remember now how proud we were of that in the beginning. We loved the sound—"of the American." We do not suppose it carried any more authority than "of the Journal" or "of the Mirror," or "of any other paper," but we used to think it did. And certainly we thought it should.

A SIX WEEK JOB they were publishing it in the old Biltmore Building on William street when we first entered the editorial rooms of the American. Charley Van Loan, once to his name, led us in there by the hand and introduced us to Harry Chapman, the sports editor, and Chapman told us he would pay us $40 per week to write baseball for the American.

We did not believe him. We thought he was kidding a verdant youth from the west. In those days, out where we came from, a man was not paid $40 per week to write baseball. He was paid $40 per week to be a managing editor. The man who wrote baseball did not get much more than half of $40 per week, and he had to write a whole lot of things besides baseball. Baseball was considered pleasure, not work.

But we got the $40 per week all right, and became "of the American," an association that was to endure long enough for us to see a son, unborn when we started there, get his newspaper baptism on the paper we so loved.

FAMOUS PARK ROW

The "Little Big" season was just across the way from the American office then, and Andy Horne, Bringer Cafe, with the big, long bar, was around the corner, and Perry's drug store, with Tim O'Brien dealing the drinks, flourished in the World Building, and Harry's restaurant was a great place to eat, and Park Row had not gone into the decline that has left it just another street.

They called the American editorial room a "madhouse" in that era, and perhaps it was. "Come to think of it, we were really rather a lot of men in their shirt sleeves running around with papers in their hands uttering shrill and incoherent cries, but we did not regard them as lunatics. They were editors and reporters of big reputations, and we envied them their status and revelled in the riot.

We thought it a completely exciting place, and though the years are long gone, and many of them are dead and buried, we still remember the warm and friendly words that they gave a moment that friendliness and very handsome young man far from home.

The American was in newspaper tradition even then. The old-timer told us of the great "Davy" Langdon Smith, who had worked on the paper, and of Earl Becker, and "Tinkie" Houghton, and scores of other men of newspaper renown who had been on the staff.

Bradford Merrill was the boss. They called him "The Silver Fox" because of his snowy hair. He was a man of great ability and most of his associates thought him distant and cold, but to us he displayed a kindness that leaves his memory indelible in our hearts.

He loved to personally handle the copy on a big story, and we can see him now, pencil in hand, pushing children and with an agonized gasp at a name on the list of the known dead in the Titanic disaster. It was the name of his dearest friend.

MANAGING EDITOR'S PARADE

While the general staff of the American did not change often, as the staff of newspapers, especially in later years, we used to use an extraordinary editor, and sometimes not himself working out, which gave rise to a rumor that there was a mirror in the entrance.

We always suspected there was a mirror, since living in the premises in the old days who fancied managing editors as a diet and ate him alive. We could account for their sudden disappearance no other way.

We do not know how good a paper the American may have been in the eyes of other newspapers, but this we know. That it was as good as the ingenuity and tireless effort, and deep loyalty of its staff as a crew of newspapermen as was ever assembled under one roof could make it.

We are not shedding tears over the passing of the American, however. We appreciate that the changing economic conditions made it imperative, and we are proud that its spirit will live on in the Daily Mirror and the Journal.

But we weep, unshaken for a lost and glorious youth that we spent under the victrix of the American. Still, we faithfully remember that we told Charley Van Loan when Harry Chapman gave us that job as $40 per week 26 years ago, that it was too good to last.

DEFEND BLOCK ON CHARGES OF TAX AVOIDANCE

Special to Boston Evening American

New York, June 25.—In connection with the naming of Paul Block, the publisher, in the list of sixty millionaires announced in Washington as alleged income tax avoiders, a defense on behalf of Mr. Block was made public here. It was in the form of a letter from Mark Easter, attorney for Mr. Block, addressed to the publisher, delaying it was unfair to mention Mr. Block in this respect.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Believing in his report to the Senate Finance investigating committee, named the Consolidated Publishers, Inc., owned by Mr. Block, as one of the companies said to evade taxes.

2 OUTSTANDING FACTS

In his letter to Mr. Block, Mr. Easter says: "There are two outstanding facts which preclude any inference that the Consolidated Publishers, Inc., owns the evidence to any consideration of taxes: 'First, Mr. Block has refused to 1936 the term 'personal holding company' which is subject to the tax law, and this classification was first described in the Revenue Act of 1934, eight years later."

Second: Its formation was made necessary on account of business transactions which permitted no alternative."

TELLS OF PURCHASES

Mr. Easter then tells of the purchase of additional newspaper properties by Mr. Block and the underwriting of securities in connection therewith, and continuing:

"It appears that Commissioner Believing has used Consolidated Publishers, Inc., with others, including the following examples of tax avoidance devices: 'However, there is not the remotest connection or thought of tax saving in the organization or existence of Consolidated Publishers, Inc.'"

Arrowheads Start B. U. Collection

Arrowheads found in Natick thirty-two years ago by the late Charles H. Mitchell have become the nucleus of Boston University's anthropological collection, one of the best in New England.

As a small boy, Mitchell began collecting arrowheads and implements of the Indians as a hobby. Now his more than 2000 geological and anthropological items—relics of a bygone age—serve as the B. U. anthropological collection in the Roden Building.

Mitchell's collection includes many important specimens of moccasins, robes and furs gathered from all parts of this and other countries.

RECIPES TO END CONSTIPATION

Every woman can protect her family from common constipation by careful menu planning. Often the cause of illness from constipation is lack of fiber in the diet.

Kellogg's All-Bran supplies this "bulk" in generous quantity. You can use All-Bran in so many delightful ways. As a ready-to-eat cereal with milk or cream, fruit or honey added. Or make a delicious bran muffin and bread—put it into croutets, salads or soups, or over other cereals.

Just be sure to measure out your family gets two tablespoons every day—and forget the illness caused by constipation. Serve three times daily, in severe cases.

You can also forget pills and drugs that nobody likes to take—and that so often fail unless the dose is constantly increased.

Kellogg's All-Bran also supplies vitamin B to help tone the intestines, and iron for the blood. Sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

DEVER REVEALS 'STRAW LEASE' RACKET

Massachusetts "straw lease" racket by which persons have been enabled to obtain homes, offices and automobiles, illegally, was exposed today by a ruling handed down by Attorney-General Dever.

The ruling explains the use of straw leases for purposes of illegal evasion and is expected to affect hundreds of cases throughout the state.

Under former laws of the Commonwealth it was possible for landlords to evade where the tenant had no written lease for a specified term, to lease the premises to a straw for even one day and thereby and the tenant.

The Dever ruling is in effect a repeal of the law contained in Chapter 186 of the General Laws. Section 13 provides that when the landlord terminates the tenancy for any reason other than non-payment of rent the tenant is entitled to a notice equal to the period which usually elapses between rent days.

14 DAY NOTICE

This is indirectly a month but may be a week or even a day if paid in full that way.

Properly ordered, making the expiration of lease period equal to the period which usually elapses between rent days.

In the straw lease racket, a person seeking to evade a tenant for any reason at all had only to introduce a straw lease to show that someone had paid rent to the property and the eviction started immediately.

In many cases less than half an hour's notice was given. The representatives of the owner would gain access to the premises, take possession and move furniture and belongings in the street.

"For years prior to the World War certain persons resorted to the straw lease racket for the sole purpose of evicting a person from his apartment or home."

As a result of Attorney-General Dever's ruling, the racket is being investigated, the racket, declared.

"The grounds for that action go back to the old fraud law and the method was practiced throughout the state for many years."

MOVE RIGHT OUT

"If I wanted to evict you from my property leased to you, for some reason or other, many cases, of course, because of bills and would produce a straw lease by merely having someone take an oath that he had leased the property, whereupon, unless you vacated at once, I could pull up a war in front of your home and move your stuff out on the street. Of course, the straw lease used was just a straw lease and nothing more. If I didn't mean to actually have someone who was going to move into the property I wanted vacated."

By means of an emergency act passed during the war and which ended when the war ended, this practice was ordered stopped. The racket was stalled for some time, as a result. But right after the war the racket rose again and until recently became a vicious practice.

"Now if I don't like you and I don't want you to occupy my property, or if I want you pushed right off your own house because you happen to be late in payments, I've got to go to court and secure a legal eviction. That won't be obtained by means of introducing any straw leases."

Cites Beatings to Win Divorce

The husband quit work a few weeks after their wedding in September, 1935, and every time she asked him when he was going to start again, he beat her. Mrs. Clifford Blodgett of West Roxbury told Judge Frederick J. Dillon in Buffalo, probate court today.

The beatings came on an average of twice a week, she said, until she finally got tired of it all and decided to get a divorce.

She got the divorce and the right to resume her maiden name of Dorothy Gilman as well.

Mrs. Blodgett was one of 29 women and three men who sought divorce in the uncontested session. Nearly all of them won their cases.

Billie Finds It's Hens or Career

So This Rooster Gives Up Love, Keeps Job

Hennepin, Okla., June 25 (AP)—Billie, a five-year-old bantam rooster, made his choice between love and a career. The rooster won. He was back on the job today as an office boy.

His boss, O. T. Hale, proprietor of a produce firm here, said the diminutive black and white chicken calls him in the front office when a customer appears and persuades him to give the rooster "company."

"Whenever I go into the cream room or egg room to work, it's up to Billie to let me know when someone comes in," Hale said. "He doesn't crow exactly. It's a kind of a wreek, and he only uses it when he wants to call me."

But after the advent of the bantam hen, Billie "just let his job go to pieces."

FOUGANT FAREWELL

"Things finally got so bad, I was forced to give the hen away."

"When the boy I gave her to carried her, Billie ran after her. I thought for him to come back. After he'd trailed her a way, he finally made his choice, and back he came."

He and Billie acquired his talent as an office boy without any special training.

U. S. ASKS CLUES IN KIDNAP HUNT

St. Paul, Minn., June 25 (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation, apparently stymied in its search for clues in the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Alice McDonald Parsons, 25, Island society matron, put 30,000 circulars in the mail today asking "information" concerning her whereabouts.

They are larger than the ordinary circular of this kind, measuring about 18 by 18 inches and carry a detailed description of the missing person, together with five photographs.

On the day Mrs. Parsons vanished, but hours after she had put a ransom note demanding $25,000 was found.

Rockefeller Life Stories Headed for Screen

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor, Universal Service
Los Angeles, June 25—Not surprised, are you, that the fascinating story of John D. Rockefeller, who amassed the world's greatest fortune and then gave most of it away, is headed for the movies?

[illegible]

From a source who must admit is not official, we hear that Louella O. Parsons, a woman who has been extremely successful in their plotting of such events, will tell their spinster of "The Seizure of Oil." The Seizure is rumored as "Rockefeller's foundation," and will deal with Chatter in Hollywood. Very quiet—and without any fanfare of publicity—has been the fact that Linda Farrell and Drew Erskine, a planning wedding bells some 10 years ago, have now decided to get married. The couple have been romancing for over a decade, but that long separation, which took them to London to make a picture, seemed to have awakened them to how much they really cared for one another.

Schmeling, Forgotten Man, Becomes Key To Fight Industry

Where, Oh Where Can He Be?

Only Max's number does not answer. Herr Schmeling is out. He is hunting canaries in the Hartz Mountains. He is eating schnitzel with Adolph Hitler. He is pitching weltmarks mitt Goering. Ja!

There was a blob of red sealing wax and a baby ribbon at the bottom. Also Mike Jacob's scrawl. But the best that Herr Schmeling could do in contacting Mike was a busy buzz in his ear. Mr. Jacobs was out. Mr. Jacobs was uptown or maybe downtown. Mr. Jacobs was pouring wine for the press. Mr. Jacobs was A.W.O.L.

Thus Louis is in the quaint position of being champion with practically nobody to fight, and being forced to tour the country selling more and more mediocre stuffs until he exhausts the stock. He may even have to lift the color, he when he drew against 1117 POWERHOUSE (A-NC) and how they hit. Odr Red Sox. Cronin is leading the parade with 211. Immy Fox, looks a bit out of place with his 274, but it must be remembered that he got away to a poor place of illness. Despite the low			average, though, he has knocked in 48 runs to lead the club in this important respect. Tom James Ben Chapman with 307 and Roger. J.H. Cramer with 211.

'Crab' Cost Crimson Race

New London, Ct., June 25—Yale's freshman and junior varsity crews set a style for the varsity to copy by capturing both morning races of the annual Yale-Harvard regatta today.

The Yale freshmen won by three-quarters of a length. The race was a nip and tuck affair, near the finish, when one of the boys in the Harvard shell caught a crab.

The B race passed with a full length. Yale led a steady stroke all the way and had something in reserve at the finish.

Official time for the freshman race was Yale, 11:14.3; Harvard, 12:13.

On the junior varsity—Yale, 11:34.3 and Harvard, 12:53.5. Both crews were in perfect form.

Both crews were in perfect form. The Yale freshmen picked up a lead of a few feet at the start and maintained it throughout the race.

CRAB COSTLY. With a full length to go, Harvard was in a pinch. Both crews were in perfect form.

H-Y Nines Clash In 'Rubber'

New Haven, June 25—The nine-oared crews of Yale and Harvard clashed in a "rubber" race today at New Haven. The Yale crew won by a length and a half.

YALE LEADING. The Yale crew was in the lead from the start. The Harvard crew was in a pinch.

May Rail Reports Studied

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

Operating reports of class 1 railroads for May, released today, clearly reveal decreasing earnings power despite good increases in gross. The divergence is attributed by many observers to increased operating costs and increased taxation. At the same time, the movement of more freight and passengers on the lower rate schedules, while increasing gross, would probably be offset by increased costs even if materials, supplies and taxes stood at the same levels as in 1936.

When the trend of earnings is considered along with wage declines and the position of the railroads, it is not the ICC which will grant freight rates, it is not necessary to look further for an explanation of recent weakness in the rail group. However, the railroads do not seem to believe that the outlook is so bleak as painted by first, some relief seems to be gained by the ICC. Second, the budgets of most roads contain expenditures for deferred repairs that are not going to be met for some time. Third, railroad labor, while capable of obtaining a share of earnings, is framed for its ability to resist and even to force a wage compromise. Fourth, the fact that the railroads are not going to gain it may prove that the reduced rates simply have lifted the load at which the leverage factor begins to affect earnings.

The situation in France reminds one of the fall before the storm. A new cabinet has taken over control and there are reports that the French government is preparing to call for a new election. But hard-bodded financial observers realize that such action did not change the actual financial situation in the least. The talk, naturally, turns to new franc devaluation, whether or not it will come is a matter of personal opinion. However, the foreign dispatches the debate is not centering around devaluation but around the probable level at which the franc will be stabilized.

In other words, informed observers abroad expect the action and new economic situation in France with how and in what manner it will happen. In terms of the railroads, the figure of 124 cents for the pound-1926 parity index is not the figure. Finally, the coming of last year's devaluation law in the figure. Finally, the coming of last year's devaluation law in the figure. Finally, the coming of last year's devaluation law in the figure.

With due regard for the depressing effects of rail rates, despite the attractive features they might single out as favorable over the long term, the attitude of caution is called for here. Both holders and prospective buyers of rail stocks should be careful. The first by their desire to make commensurate returns and the second by holding on as a time when they might otherwise sell. The attitude of caution is called for here. Both holders and prospective buyers of rail stocks should be careful. The first by their desire to make commensurate returns and the second by holding on as a time when they might otherwise sell.

Then industrial rallies will be in danger of being upset. It has happened in this bull market that the end of a decline came about when group trends were decidedly mixed. And after the rally was working from low as industrial bulls at previous declines. The current position of the averages makes such a situation possible, even more. And it is suggested that readers watch for a duplication of past action.

Notebook: American Tobacco "is" considered attractive on an income basis by many observers. But their friendliness toward the stock is not limited to this alone. They feel the current year will witness substantial improvement over 1936 results. And while the 43 per share dividend may not be covered, it is considered likely that the company will do so in view of the strong financial position. At the same time, and as commented on a clincher for the bullish attitude these same observers point out that Tobacco has been maintaining its competitive position. From a chart standpoint the group as a whole has yet to make an impressive looking base.
